Footnotes

- ¹ For a total of 7 credits—one Biological Sciences [BSCI] and one Physical Sciences [PSCI] course, including one lab course.
- ² Elective credits should include sufficient 300-400-level courses to meet University requirement of 40 upper-division credits.
- ³ Child and Youth Electives (9 credits; minimum 6 H D credits): Students must complete at least three courses from the following: H D 300, 301, 302, 341, 360, 418, 430, ANTH 302, PSYCH 464, SOC 352, 362, 367
- ⁴ H D 497 is required and must be completed prior to H D 498, but no more than two semesters before H D 498.
- ⁵ The internship course (H D 498) is also available during the summer semester of the junior or senior year. Students may take H D 498 for up to 9 credits. For students completing the Child and Youth Development options, the H D 498 internship experience must focus on a field relevant to child and/or adolescent development.

Human Development New subplan (option): Bachelor of Arts in Human Development - Human Services	Human Development – Human Services Option (120 Credits) Students can be admitted as a Human Development major after completing 24 credits and earning a GPA of at least 2.0. A cumulative GPA of 2.6 or better in all H D courses that apply to the option, including substitutions is required to (a) maintain admission in the major; and (b) complete the Bachelor of Arts degree in Human Development. Of the 47 credits required for the major and Human Services option, a minimum of 21 must be taken at WSU.	8-21

With an appeal to the department chair, a student may request to take COM 300 for a 3rd attempt during a summer session. All pre-requisites must be met in order to move through the Murrow curriculum. If a student fails to complete the	8-21 required curriculum, they will not be able to remain admitted in the Murrow College. If a student is failing to complete academic requirements in a reasonable timeline, an advisor will work with the student to identify another academic path. Students must remain in good academic standing in order to graduate with a degree from the Murrow College.

Direct to Degree for Transfer Students

Transfer students bringing in 30 or more semester credits from an outside institution, and a 3.0 or higher transfer GPA will be directly admitted into the Murrow College. After consulting with a Murrow Professional Academic Advisor ~~academic advisor~~, a student transferring with junior status (60 or more semester credits), with a 3.0 or higher transfer GPA, and who has completed COM 101 or COM 105 from another institution, will be allowed to take COM 300 in their first semester at WSU with all remaining 100 level required communication courses. All transfer students are required to consult with a Murrow Professional Academic Advisor ~~academic advisor~~ prior to enrollment at WSU.

Additional majors within the Strategic Communication Degree

Students with a primary major in Journalism and Media Production, can elect to earn an additional major within the degree or within the college, with the exception of Integrated Strategic Communication, by completing the second set of major requirements and two additional upper division courses in COM, COMJOUR, COMSOC and COMSTRAT. These courses cannot be used elsewhere in the degree. If interested in this option, please consult with a Murrow Professional Academic Advisor.

Double Degree

Students with a primary major/degree in Journalism and Media Production can earn a second degree in the department of Strategic Communication. To be admitted into a second Murrow degree option, please consult with a Murrow Professional Academic Advisor. *Note: to earn a second degree, you must complete 150 credits.

Academic Requirements

Below is a detailed schedule of studies in a 4-year format. However, students will develop their own academic plan in consultation with their professional academic advisor through the Murrow Center for Student Success. The BA in Journalism and Media Production is broken down into four main categories as found in myWSU under your Academic Requirements:

1. College Core Requirements: COM 101; 102; 105; 138; 210; and 300 (18 credits).
2. Journalism and Media Production Degree Requirements: COM 320; 415; 440; COMJOUR 350; COMSOC 321; and one Advanced Media and Society course from approved list (in footnotes) (18 credits).

3. Major Requirements for Broadcast News: COMJOUR 333; 335; 465; 466; and one Specialization Course 475-490 not used elsewhere in the degree (16 credits).

4. Major Upper Division Electives: (in footnotes) (9 credits).

Journalism and Media Production New plan (major) Bachelor of Arts in Journalism and Media Production - Media and Technology	Media and Technology (120 Credits) This major in journalism and media production focuses on emerging media platforms, management of digital media to enhance user engagements, online communities, and the role of media and technology on social landscapes. Admission Requirements Students are admitted directly into their desired major in the College of Communication upon admission and enrollment at Washington State University. To remain admitted in any major in the College of Communication, a student must complete all required courses and have a minimum cumulative 2.0 GPA. COM 300 must be completed with a C or better, and only two attempts are allowed and a “W” is counted as an attempt. With an appeal to the department	8-21 chair, a student may request to take COM 300 for a 3rd attempt during a summer session. All pre-requisites must be met in order to move through the Murrow curriculum. If a student fails to complete the required curriculum, they will not be able to remain admitted in the Murrow College. If a student is failing to complete academic requirements in a reasonable timeline, an advisor will work with the student to identify another academic path. Students must remain in good academic standing in order to graduate with a degree from the Murrow College.

Direct to Degree for Transfer Students

Transfer students bringing in 30 or more semester credits from an outside institution, and a 3.0 or higher transfer GPA will be directly admitted into the Murrow College. After consulting with a Murrow Professional Academic Advisor, a student transferring with junior status (60 or more semester credits), with a 3.0 or higher transfer GPA, and who has completed COM 101 or COM 105 from another institution, will be allowed to take COM 300 in their first semester at WSU with all remaining 100 level required communication courses. All transfer students are required to consult with a Murrow Professional Academic Advisor prior to enrollment at WSU.

Additional majors within the Strategic Communication Degree

Students with a primary major in Journalism and Media Production, can elect to earn an additional major within the degree or within the college, with the exception of Integrated Strategic Communication, by completing the second set of major requirements and two additional upper division courses in COM, COMJOUR, COMSOC and COMSTRAT. These courses cannot be used elsewhere in the degree. If interested in this option, please consult with a Murrow Professional Academic Advisor.

Double Degree

Students with a primary major/degree in Journalism and Media Production can earn a second degree in the department of Strategic Communication. To be admitted into a second Murrow degree option, please consult with a Murrow Professional Academic Advisor. *Note: to earn a second degree, you must complete 150 credits.

Academic Requirements

Below is a detailed schedule of studies in a 4-year format. However, students will develop their own academic plan in consultation with their professional academic advisor through the Murrow Center for Student Success. The BA in Journalism and Media Production is broken down into four main categories as found in myWSU under your Academic Requirements:

1. College Core Requirements: COM 101; 102; 105; 138; 210; and 300 (18 credits).
2. Journalism and Media Production Degree Requirements: COM 320; 415; 440; COMJOUR 350; COMSOC 321; and One Advanced Media and Society course from approved list (in footnotes) (18 credits).
3. Media and Technology Major Requirements: COM 420; 481; and 490; COMSOC 324; COMSTRAT 310 (15 credits).

4. Major Upper Division Electives: (in footnotes) (9 credits).

COMJOUR, COMSOC and COMSTRAT. These courses cannot be used elsewhere in the degree. If interested in this option, please consult with a Murrow Academic Advisor.

Double Degree

Students with a primary major/degree in Strategic Communication can earn a double degree in the department of Journalism and Media Production. To be admitted into a second Murrow degree option, please consult with a Murrow Professional Advisor. *Note: to earn a second degree, you must complete 150 credits.

Academic Requirements

Below is a detailed schedule of studies in a 4-year format. However, students will develop their own academic plan in consultation with their professional academic advisor through the Murrow Center for Student Success. The BA in Strategic Communication is broken down into four main categories as found in myWSU under your Academic Requirements:

1. College Core Requirements: COM 101; 102; 105; 138; 210; and 300 (18 credits).
2. Strategic Communication Degree Requirements: COM 309; COMSTRAT 310; COMSTRAT 395 or MKTG 360; COMSOC 301, One Advanced Media and Society course from approved list (in footnotes); and One Specialization Elective course (in footnotes) (18 credits).
3. Major Requirements: Advertising: COMSTRAT 380; 381; 382; 476; and 480 (15 credits).
4. Major Upper Division Electives: (in footnotes) (9 credits).

Strategic Communication New plan (major) Bachelor of Arts in Strategic Communication, Risk and Crisis Communication	Risk and Crisis Communication (120 Credits) Students are admitted directly into their desired major in the College of Communication upon admission and enrollment at Washington State University. To remain admitted in any major in the College of Communication, a student must complete all required courses and remain in good academic standing. COM 300 must be completed with a C or better, and only two attempts are allowed and a “W” is counted as an attempt. With an appeal to the department chair, a student may request to take COM 300 for a 3rd attempt during a summer session. All pre-requisites must be met in order to move through the Murrow curriculum. If a student fails to complete the required curriculum, they will not be able to remain admitted in the Murrow College. If a student is failing to complete academic requirements in a reasonable timeline, an advisor will work with the student to identify another academic path. Students must remain in good academic standing in order to graduate with a degree from the Murrow College. Direct to Degree for Transfer Students Transfer students bringing in 30 or more semester credits from an outside institution, and a 3.0 or higher transfer GPA will be directly admitted into the Murrow College. After consulting with a Murrow academic advisor, a student transferring with junior status (60 or more semester credits), with a 3.0 or higher transfer GPA, and who has completed COM 101 or COM 105 from another institution, will be allowed to take COM 300 in their first semester at WSU with	8-21 all remaining 100 level required communication courses. All transfer students are required to consult with a Murrow academic advisor prior to enrollment at WSU.

Below is a detailed schedule of studies in a 4-year format. However, students will develop their own academic plan in consultation with their professional academic advisor through the Murrow Center for Student Success. The BA in Strategic Communication is broken down into four main categories as found in myWSU under your Academic Requirements:

1. College Core Requirements: COM 101; 102; 105; 138; 210; and 300 (18 credits).
